

I'm no programmer, nor do I even know much AppleScript. Yet when I dreamed up these AppleScript applications, they were just too good not to share with others.

Just leave these two applications on your desktop. Whenever you want to install a new extension or control panel into your System Folder, just drag and drop its icon onto the icon of the appropriate installer. The app will automatically move (or copy) the extension or control panel to the right folder; then it will automatically restart your Mac. Upon restart, the new extension or control panel will be installed!

Both of these should work on any Mac that can support both drag-and-drop and AppleScript; that is, almost any Mac running System 7.5 or newer. If you have any problems (or anything else you want to say) please e-mail me at dwylfin@iname.com . I may or may not be able to help, but I will certainly try, or at least, feel your pain. :)

Do you find these AppleScripts really useful? If you do, please send $5.00 US in check, US postal money order, or cash (US currency) to:

Richard Wiley
3800 Woodmere Way
Bloomington, IN 47403
USA

This fee will cover the use of both "Install Extension" and "Install Control Panel."

Are you a software developer who writes Control Panels or System Extensions? Then for an additional $15 US fee, you can redistribute either or both of these scripts along with your software. This is a one-time only fee that will allow you to distribute the scripts with any number of your own extensions or control panels. I strongly recommend e-mailing me beforehand to tell me what extensions or control panels you write and where you are planning to distribute them.

Any other redistribution of these Installer Scripts, in which the scripts are not included with anyone else's software, must include this README file. These Install Scripts may included on the Info-Mac CD-ROM or other CD-ROMs.
